Index

Page numbers in italics refer to tables or figures

A

Academy of Traumatology
  Green Cross Standards of Self-Care Guidelines, 30, 89, 94–100
Acupressure stress reduction technique
  description, 80
  steps to follow, 80–81
Adams, R.E.
  compassion fatigue study, 26–27
American Animal Hospital Association report on clients’ view of veterinarians as pediatricians for their pets, 52 results of the Compassion Satisfaction and Fatigue Test given to veterinarians, veterinary techs, veterinary assistants, and front office staff, 52–61
Anderson, R.K.
  human-animal bond research, 37
Animal-shelter environment anthropomorphism in workers, 64–66
  burnout and, 49, 50
  caregivers as “self-sacrificers,” 47
  compassion fatigue and, 47–48, 64
  compassion satisfaction and, 48–50
  “constructive vengeance” and shelter workers, 47 criteria for the definition of an animal shelter, 41
  differential diagnosis approach to workers’ emotional health, 47–48 emotional costs to workers, 45, 67 emotional self-injury of workers and, 43
  euthanasia and, 43, 45–46
  external pressures for workers, 43–44
  helping profession syndrome, 47
high-risk exposure factors for workers, 46
HSUS survey of workers, 65–66
internal pressures for workers, 44
misanthropy and, 66–67
personality-occupation typology of workers, 46–47 reasons why people work at shelters, 41–42
rewards of working in a shelter, 44
trends in compassion fatigue, 47–48
typical shelter organizational chart, 42
worker example, 63–64

Anthropomorphism
description, 64
element, 64–65
HSUS survey of animal-shelter workers, 65–66

Arluke, A.
human-animal bond research, 40

ASR technique. See Acupressure stress reduction technique

Assessment
MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block, 32

Attitudes
compassion stress and, 9–10

B
Barker, Sandra
“A Scientific Look at the Human-Animal Bond,” 38–40
Barnes, M.F.
secondary traumatic stress symptoms, 22

Beaver, Bonnie
human-animal bond research, 39

Beck, Alan
“A Scientific Look at the Human-Animal Bond,” 38–40

Becker, Marty
“A Scientific Look at the Human-Animal Bond,” 38–40

Boscarino, J.A.
compassion fatigue study, 26–27

Breathing exercises
instructions, 72
reasons for, 71–72

Burnout. See also Compassion fatigue animal shelter and animal-control workers and, 50
definition, 50
front office staff and practice management and, 61
self-test results, 49, 50
veterinarians and, 55
veterinary technicians and assistants and, 58
in the workplace, 19–21
C

The calling of animal care
  compassion stress and, 10
Care-killing paradox, 35
Cf. See Compassion fatigue
Checklist of self-care activities, 90–92
Collord, Rick
  euthanasia workshops, 43
Compassion
  being attentive to clients and, 4 competency costs, 6
  definition, 3–4, 10
  emotional costs, 4–5
  interest in animals and, 3
  therapeutic alliance and, 4 Compassion fatigue. See also Compassion stress; Secondary traumatic stress animal-shelter workers and, 47–48, 64
  burnout in nurses and, 22, 24
  care-killing paradox, 35
  compassion satisfaction comparison, 49–50 concern for suffering and, 12
  “contagion effect,” 24, 25, 66–67
  countertransference and, 11, 27–28
  definition, 11
  empathic ability and, 12
  exposure to suffering and, 12
  factors, 12–14
  front office staff and practice management and, 59
  general information resources, 106
  Humane Society University workshops, 35–36 literature on veterinarians and, 51–52 model for predicting and preventing compassion fatigue, 12 model of the problem and solutions, 11–14 other life demands and, 11–12
  post-traumatic stress disorder and, 11, 24 professional resource information, 104–105 prolonged exposure to suffering and, 13 psychological and physical detachment from the job and, 13
  questions to answer, 70–71
  research limitations, 25–26
  satisfaction and, 13
  self-assessments, 30, 48, 95–99
  self-case reporting, 64
  self-test, 35, 52, 101–107
  self-test results, 48
  symptoms, 30, 70
  “toxic” circumstances and, 12
  transition phases for new helpers, 14–16
traumatic memories and, 13
  trends, 47–48
  veterinarians and, 51–53
  veterinary technicians and assistants and, 56
  vicarious trauma and, 11, 28–29
Compassion satisfaction compassion fatigue comparison, 49–50
  definition, 48
  front office staff and practice management and, 60–61
  questions to answer, 70–71
  revitalization and resilience and, 71
  self-test results, 49
  veterinarians and, 53–55
  veterinary technicians and assistants and, 57
Compassion Satisfaction and Fatigue Test, 35, 52, 101–107 Compassion stress. See also Compassion fatigue
  definition, 11
  neurobiology of, 8–9
  social psychology of, 9–10
Competency costs of caring, 6
  “Contagion effect,” 24, 25, 66–67
Corso vs. Crawford Dog and Cat Hospital, 38 Countertransference
  compassion fatigue and, 11, 27–28
  management of, 27–28
Cresgam, Edward
  “A Scientific Look at the Human-Animal Bond,” 38–40
Crimi, M.
  clients’ view of veterinarians as pediatricians for their pets, 52, 53
CS. See Compassion satisfaction
CSF Test. See Compassion Satisfaction and Fatigue Test

D

Danieli, Y. countertransference research, 27
Debriefing
  aim of, 87–88
  description, 87
  five-stage model, 88
Defusing
  description, 85
  six-step defusing model for support, reassurance, and provision of information, 86–87
Diesch, Stanley
  human-animal bond research, 37
Index

E
Emotion continuum, 67
Emotion-focused therapy. See Acupressure stress reduction technique Emotional costs of caring, 4–5. See also Compassion fatigue; Compassion stress Empathy
  definition, 2–3
Euthanasia
  compassion fatigue, burnout and compassion satisfaction among veterinary professionals who perform euthanasia, 51 workshops for shelter workers, 43, 45–46
Evaluation
  MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block, 33
External stressors
  animal-shelter workers, 43–44
  front office staff and practice management and, 59–60
  veterinarians, 52–53
  veterinary technicians and assistants and, 56–57

F Fakkema, Doug
  transition phases for new helpers, 14–16, 16n5
Fatigue
  definition, 10–11
Figley, C.R.
  compassion fatigue study, 26–27
  stress-coping personalities, 36
Figley, Kathy Regan
  defusing model, 86–87
Frazier, P.A.
  vicarious trauma research, 29
Front office staff and practice management
  burnout and, 61
  compassion fatigue and, 59
  external stressors, 59–60
  job satisfaction and, 60–61
Gender differences compassion fatigue, burnout and compassion satisfaction among veterinary professionals, 51
Gestalt chair technique
description, 78
steps to follow, 78–79
videotaping the exchange, 79
Gilman, N.
antropomorphism and misanthropy in animal-shelter workers, 64–66
Glucocorticoids
action of during stress, 8–9, 16n1
Green Cross Foundation
  MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation, 31–34
  Standards of Self-Care Guidelines, 30, 89, 94–100
  You Too! Wellness Weekend program, 30–31

Hayes, J.A.
countertransference research, 27
Helping profession syndrome
  animal-shelter workers and, 47
Henderson, C.E.
sself-hypnosis technique, 74–77
Hill, J.A.
crisis debriefing, 87–88
Hippocampal volume reduction, 9, 16n3
Hollingsworth, M.A. compassion fatigue among therapists, 24
HSU. See Humane Society University
HSUS. See Humane Society of the United States, The Human-animal bond age and, 39–40
  definitions of terms, 38
  description, 37
  legal test, 38
  NIH technological assessment workshop on the benefits of human-animal interaction, 38 positive and negative aspects of, 39–40 scientific research on, 38–40
  “The Human Health Responsibilities of Veterinarians,” 37
Humane Society of the United States, The mission of, 34
  survey of animal-shelter workers, 65–66
Humane Society University compassion fatigue workshops, 35–36
description, 34
distance learning component, 35, 36
individual action plan development, 35–36 professional leadership courses and seminars, 34
social marketing courses, 34–35

J
Jacobs, M.
“constructive vengeance” and shelter workers, 47
Janoff-Bulman, R.
vicarious trauma research, 28

K
Koerner, J.
burnout in nurses, 22, 24

L
Lee, C.S.
vicarious trauma research, 29
Life plan
MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation and, 33–34

M Maclan, P.S.
vicarious trauma research, 29
Manette, C.
“The Weight of Compassion,” 51–52
MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block one: motivation, 31–32 building block two: assessment, 32 building block three: self-reflection, 32 building block four: transformation, 33 building block five: evaluating, 33 building block six: review process, 33 building block seven: studying, 34
life plan and, 33–34
life skills for wellness, 33
McCulloch, William
human-animal bond research, 37
Meditation
  purpose of, 82
  seven-step procedure, 82

Misanthropy
  animal-shelter workers and, 66

Mitchener, K.L.
  self-treatment for compassion fatigue, 51

Motivation
  compassion stress and, 9–10
  MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block, 31–32

Muss, D. rewind technique, 83–84

N

National Institutes of Health
  “The Human Health Responsibilities of Veterinarians,” 37
  technological assessment workshop on the benefits of human-animal interaction, 38

Neurobiology of compassion stress action of glucocorticoids during stress, 8–9, 16n1 brain hemisphere operations, 8
  hippocampal volume reduction and, 9, 16n3 permanent changes in neuronal differentiation and organization and, 9, 16n4

NIH. See National Institutes of Health

O

Ogilvie, G.K.
  self-treatment for compassion fatigue, 51

P

PAWSitive Inter Action
  “A Scientific Look at the Human-Animal Bond,” 38–40

Pearlman, L.A.
  vicarious trauma research, 29

Peer support activities, 85, 93n6

Personality traits
  compassion stress and, 9

Post-traumatic stress disorder compared with secondary traumatic stress, 22
  compassion fatigue and, 11, 24
  symptoms, 11
Practice management. See Front office staff and practice management

Psychological stress compared with traumatic stress, 69–70
PTSD. See Post-traumatic stress disorder

R Regehr, C.
  crisis debriefing, 87–88
Review process
  MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block, 33
Revitalization and resilience
  compassion satisfaction and, 71
  personal program of self-care, 89–92
  questions to answer, 70–71
  stress management at work, 71–88
  stress management away from work, 89
Rewind technique
  steps to follow, 83–84
Robbins, S.
  effects of stress on job performance, 66–67
  emotion continuum, 67
Ross, M.
  The Wellness Workbook, 72

S
Safe and joyful place visualization
  instructions, 72–73
Schauben, L.J.
  vicarious trauma research, 29
“A Scientific Look at the Human-Animal Bond” (Alan Beck, Sandra Barker, Marty Becker, and Edward Cresgam), 38–40
Secondary traumatic stress
  compared with post-traumatic stress disorder, 22
  “contagion effect,” 24, 25, 66–67
  countertransference and, 27–28
  personal impact of, 23
  research limitations, 25–26
  support system and, 25
  symptoms, 22, 25
  vicarious trauma and, 28–29
Self-care program
  checklist of activities, 90–92
  commitment to self-care, 89
Self-hypnosis
  - best uses for, 73–74
  - reasons not to use, 74
  - self-talk, self-advice instructions, 74–77
Self-reflection
  - MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block, 32
Self-tests
  - compassion fatigue, 30, 48, 95–99
Shepherd, J.
  - anthropomorphism and misanthropy in animal-shelter workers, 64–66
SJP visualization. See Safe and joyful place visualization Smith, W.H.
  - compassion fatigue description, 46
  - “Euthanasia: The Human Factor” workshops, 45–46
  - shelter and animal-control employee comments, 45
Social networks
  - compassion stress and, 10
Social psychology of compassion stress
  - attitudes, motivations and, 9–10
  - “calling” of animal care and, 10
  - personality traits, 9
  - social relations and social support and, 10
  - supportive environment and, 10
  - work satisfaction and, 9–10
Stamm, B.H.
  - burnout in veterinarians, 55
  - compassion satisfaction definition, 48
Standards of Self-Care Guidelines, 30, 89, 94–100
Stress. See also Compassion stress
  - definition, 11
  - psychological stress compared with traumatic stress, 69–70
Stress management techniques
  - acupressure stress reduction, 80–81
  - breathing exercises, 71–72
  - debriefing, 87–88
  - defusing, 85–87
  - Gestalt chair technique, 78–79
  - group activities, 85–87
  - hobbies and leisure activities, 89
  - meditation, 82
  - peer support, 85, 93n6
  - rewind technique, 83–84
  - safe and joyful place visualization, 72–73
  - self-hypnosis, 73–77
Tapping technique. See Acupressure stress reduction technique Thought field therapy. See Acupressure stress reduction technique Tillett, R.
  helping profession syndrome, 47
Transformation
  MASTERS Process of Wellness Transformation building block, 33
Transition phases for new helpers
  phase one: dreams of helping, 14–15
  phase two: starting work, 15
  phase three: waning enthusiasm, 15
  phase four: learning to pace oneself, 15
  phase five: seeing where you fit in the big picture, 16 Traumatic stress. See also Secondary traumatic stress compared with psychological stress, 69–70

V Valent, P.
  burnout research, 50
Vermont Veterinary Medical Association
  human-animal bond research, 40
Veterinarians
  anthropomorphism and, 66
  burnout and, 55
  compassion fatigue and, 52–53, 64
  compassion satisfaction and, 53–55
  external stressors and, 52–53
  human-animal bond research, 37
  interaction with difficult clients and, 54, 61
  lack of balance in the lives of, 55 “normal day” description, 51
  research on compassion fatigue and, 51–52 Veterinary technicians and assistants
  anthropomorphism and, 66
  burnout and, 58
  compassion fatigue and, 56
  compassion satisfaction and, 57
  external stressors, 56–57
Vicarious trauma
  assumptions and beliefs and, 28
  description, 28
  management of, 28
  research on, 29
Wagner, T.
  reasons why people work at animal shelters, 42
  rewards of working in a shelter, 44
“The Weight of Compassion” (C. Manette), 51–52
The Wellness Workbook (M. Ross), 72
White, D.
  reasons why people work at animal shelters, 41, 42
Winiarskyj, L.
  human-animal bond research, 40
Work environment. See also specific jobs
  compassion stress and, 10
Work-related distress
  absenteeism and, 17
  as an organizational problem, 17
  burnout in the workplace, 19–21
  secondary traumatic stress, 21–30
  stress management techniques, 71–88
  work-related stressor examples, 18
You Too! Wellness Weekend program, 30–31
Work satisfaction. See also Compassion satisfaction
  compassion stress and, 9–10
World Trade Center attacks of 2001 study of compassion fatigue, 26–27

Y
You Too! Wellness Weekend program
  description, 30–31