WFPA—
Promoting Animal Welfare World Wide

Note: Because of HSUS' membership and active participation in the World Federation for the Protection of Animals, Dr. Frucht was invited to submit an article explaining WFPA's activities to readers of The Humane Society News. HSUS President John A. Hoyt is currently serving as vice president of WFPA.

By Karl Frucht, Administrator World Federation for the Protection of Animals

Familiar with the animal welfare situation in most parts of the world, the World Federation for the Protection of Animals (WFPA) has consistently attempted to do what was most useful for the moment and most promising for the future. Founded at The Hague, Netherlands, in 1950, WFPA, with its Secretariat in Zurich, Switzerland, represents today the interests of 275 animal welfare societies in 55 countries and keeps thousands of individual members informed about progress in the various fields of animal welfare and protection.

WFPA, in its efforts towards an international solution of animal welfare problems, proceeds by (1) endeavoring to supply extensive information on animal welfare problems, varying greatly from country to country and closely related to the attitudes of the population in those countries or regions, and (2) basing animal protection on a scientific foundation in order to obtain factual knowledge and to be able to supply data and other relevant assistance to governments and national animal welfare organizations.

PAWS: A TRIBUTE TO THE LIVING, AND LOST, Iris Fuchs (CIRJ, P.O. Box 8361, Rowland Heights, Ca. 91748, $5.95)

Paws: A Tribute to the Living, and Lost, is a soft yet strong poet's view of "a thousand gentle creatures lost in the shuffle of humanity". Written by Iris Fuchs and illustrated by Becci Beebe, Paws in its hundreds of verses speaks of animals in a tone that is appealing to all those who love and appreciate animals. The words and the illustrations convey a message that neither could do alone—"God loves the animals". Iris Fuchs and Becci Beebe have dedicated a portion of the proceeds from the sale of Paws to HSUS. Here's a sampling of the verse:

> with massive power the bison fought to live.
> his great head held high, he ran the plains of his world.
> he won the wars against nature, with her winter weapons . . .
> but he was no match for mounted hunters and gunfire.
> he could not dodge lightning quick bullets which filled the air.
> and now we care enough label him endangered, and give him back the right to live.

THE SECRET LIFE OF ANIMALS, Lorus and Margery Milne, Frank Russell (E. P. Dutton, $29.95)

The Secret Life of Animals is a unique attempt to present a general reading level account of recent discoveries in animal behavior. The authors rely on observations of animals in the wild and supplement their text with over 300 magnificent color photographs. This work covers the behavior patterns of hundreds of animals and offers insights into their courting, mating, communication, feeding, and many other aspects of behavior. It is a readable and, yet, scientific discussion of some of the most interesting recent developments in animal behavior.

FAMOUS HORSES AND THEIR PEOPLE, Edna Evans (The Stephen Greene Press, $7.95)

A collection of stories regarding the relationship between horses and their masters that have brought about astonishing events and, in some cases, even shaped history. Among the famed personalities and their horses discussed are Napoleon and Marengo, Robert E. Lee and Traveller, Buffalo Bill and Charlie, and Tom Mix and his co-star Tony. With the selection of the horse as our bicentennial animal, it is especially fitting that this book recounts the important role of horses throughout history.

YOUR DOG: HIS HEALTH AND HAPPINESS, Louis Vine, D.V.M. (Winchester Press, $10.00)

A one-volume encyclopedia of dog care featuring technically accurate but easy-to-understand advice on the selection, training, and care of dogs. This 459-page book includes an excellent and unique section on detecting and interpreting symptoms of canine ailments. Dr. Vine addresses common questions of diet, longevity, and even behavior problems. A comprehensive, carefully prepared book that is among the most authoritative publications of its kind.

BIRDING FROM A TRACTOR SEAT, Charles Flugum (Thomas Crowell Company, $8.95)

Birding From A Tractor Seat is a collection of approximately 150 brief essays on American birds. Mr. Flugum's Minnesota farm provided an ideal vantage point from which to observe and study birds. His book contains insights into behavior usually omitted from standard field guides. Enjoyable reading for those with an interest in birding.

WFPA on most of the essential issues, such as stunning and slaughter methods and humane restriction of stray animal populations. A quarterly publication in three languages, "Animalia," reviews global animal welfare activities and WFPA's share in them. Following an initiative of WFPA, one of the major international publishers of scientific journals, Elsevier in Amsterdam, will soon begin to issue quarterly "Animal Regulation Studies", a multi-disciplinary journal, under the auspices of WFPA, presenting advanced research work in animal control and welfare.

WFPA has additional possibilities to represent animal welfare interests on an international scale and to achieve success in global animal welfare issues. Much of this is done through its consultative status with the United Nations and its specialized agencies such as the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), as well as the Council of Europe in Strasbourg and the International Office of Epizootics in Paris. Thus, WFPA has been instrumental in the issuance of the "European Convention for the Protection of Animals during International Transport" by the Council of Europe. It has also submitted briefs to the Council of Europe on the humanization and harmonization of rearing systems for farm animals, slaughter conditions in Europe, and experiments with live animals.

While WFPA does not neglect the possibilities of finding legal solutions for animal welfare problems on an international level, it is convinced that humane education is vitally important, not just for the future-well-being of animals, but for society as a whole. Towards this goal, WFPA has contributed through publicity campaigns and study groups.

WFPA will continue to pursue its efforts to achieve an optimum in animal welfare and related issues, in full consideration of the present diverse attitudes toward animals and animal welfare existing throughout the world.
