

THE DECADE AHEAD:

DRIVING TRANSFORMATIONAL CHANGE

More than ever, the world needs an organization like The HSUS, with the power, pragmatism and professionalism to take on the biggest, most intractable problems for animals. In the decade ahead, here are some of our goals:

CHANGING THE COURSE OF FOOD AND AGRICULTURE

WE'LL CONTINUE to seek the elimination of extreme confinement and promote more humane agricultural practices in the U.S., work to reduce the demand for factory-farm products and combat the spread of factory farming abroad.

ELIMINATING ANIMAL TESTING

WE'LL LEAD the push to end cosmetics testing and sales of animal-tested cosmetics in key markets around the globe and also partner with the leaders of the world's top scientific nations to replace toxicity tests with advanced, human-biology-based technologies.

ENDING EUTHANASIA AND PROTECTING STREET DOGS GLOBALLY

WE'LL END the euthanasia of healthy or treatable pets in the U.S. by augmenting spay/neuter and adoption promotions, helping pet owners overcome barriers to keeping their companions and cracking down on puppy mills. Overseas, Humane Society International will expand the reach of its sterilization and vaccination same-day release programs for street dogs.

FORGING A NEW WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT PARADIGM

WE'LL PROMOTE greater tolerance of wildlife and push states to ban the use of highly toxic lead ammunition by sport hunters, outlaw the possession of wild animals as exotic pets and halt the reckless killing of marine mammals and terrestrial predators.

ESTABLISHING ZERO TOLERANCE FOR CRUELTY

WE'LL ESCALATE efforts to establish a global standard forbidding cruelty, dismantle major organized dogfighting networks in the U.S. and outlaw dogfighting around the world.
